RUPERT OF HEE-HAW

By Hal E. Roach.

This comedy is a burlesque version of Rupert of Hentzau, and Stan Laurel plays The King and double. The comedy situations are created by burlesque action, the King is enticed away from his palace and the Princess who has become disgusted by the actions of her Lord and Master, readily listens to the plot that will take him from the throne. All goes well until the King suddenly returns. A humorous battle is staged between the King and his double and Right triumphs over Wrong and peace once more restored in the Kingdom.
